

2010-2011 Toronto Urban Fellows Program

Application Deadline: May 31, 2010

Are you talented, innovative and passionate about public service? Are you a recent graduate? Do you want to shape the City of Toronto's policy and research agenda and improve City programs and services?

If so, the City of Toronto's Urban Fellows Program is for you.

The Toronto Urban Fellows Program provides talented new professionals with intensive exposure to the governance, services and administration of Canada's largest city.

During this year-long program (October 2010 to October 2011), Toronto Urban Fellows complete two six-month assignments in two different City divisions.

Benefits and features of the Toronto Urban Fellows Program:

- Acquire significant professional experience with Canada's largest municipal government by taking on challenging assignments in two different City divisions.
- Build your knowledge and professional network by participating in a structured series of workshops, seminars and tours with senior City officials, community champions, business leaders, and leading academics who share a passion for public service and Toronto.
- Earn a taxable salary of $62,608 and be eligible for health care benefits after 6 months.
- While Urban Fellows are not guaranteed employment with the City of Toronto upon completion of the program, participants who perform well will be strongly encouraged to apply for relevant vacancies.

Eligibility

Applicants must have graduated from a Master's or PhD program within the past three years. Internationally educated professionals are eligible and encouraged to apply.

Applicants with a post-graduate certificate in Public Administration will also be considered.

Demonstrated professional, academic and/or volunteer experience in public policy, urban affairs, municipal government services and/or the management of complex organizations is an asset.
